

Since 80% of Wisconsin residents have signed up for our state's No-Call List that should pretty much be enough to judge whether or not it should be weakened. Of course NOT! Leave it the way it is or better yet make the National No-Call List even more restrictive. I'd actually like to see this concept worked in reverse. Make all phone numbers automatically a "No-Call" number and have an opt-in "Please Call Me" List. That way the 10-20 people who might actually wish to receive unsolicited calls could sign up. For everyone else, I'm sure that if they are interested in more information, buying a product, donating to a charity, or squandering resources on a political party they can initiate the call to the organization not the other way around.
